CODE OF ETHICS

CE 1: Introduction

1. The International Jump Rope Union (IJRU) is the world governing body for Jump Rope/ Rope Skipping. IJRU aims to promote the highest possible ethical values within the sport. This Code of Ethics, adopted by the IJRU Congress, shall apply to IJRU Representatives, as well as all National Governing Bodies, Participants and regional federations acting for or on behalf of the IJRU in the sport of Jump Rope/ Rope Skipping. This Code is subordinate and supplementary to all IJRU Rules, the IJRU Constitution, as well as other governing documents adopted by the Board of Directors.
2. The Code of Ethics includes the standards of behaviour and conduct expected of all participants and gives a set of guidelines that, with research and experience, have been proven to reliably lead to the desired result, and summarizes the IJRU Ethical Principles. These rules alone cannot further ethical conduct in sport. This can only occur when participants make a personal commitment to ethical behaviour and conduct.
3. National Governing Bodies (hereinafter - NGBs) may also have their own rules of ethical conduct and they are responsible for the creation of a positive environment for the practice of safe Jump Rope/ Rope Skipping. This Code does not replace the governing documents of the NGB's such as Codes of Conduct and Codes of Ethics, but provides fundamental values and principles they must abide by as members of IJRU. See IJRU Constitution C7-C9.
4. The conduct and behaviour of all participants in national and international Jump Rope/ Rope Skipping activities must be consistent with the rules as provided by the International Olympic Committee, IJRU, and the appropriate NGBs.
5. It is important to note that while IJRU may set standards for behaviour, NGBs and their clubs have a legal and moral responsibility to address behaviour that offends community standards or is against the law. Behaviour that may be illegal shall be reported to the police.
